The accident was spectacular. A crew of thirty or more iron workers were employed installing a double track system across the bridge when the freight train approached. A few left their posts, it is said, believing the bridge unsafe. When near the center of the struc-

"TANGIBLE PROOF OF HER LOVE FOR PEACE"

Explanation of Rechad Pasha in Offering Concessions After Balkan Delegates Had Rejected Proposition For Mediation by the Powers-Turk's Counter Proposal Creates Indignation-Status of Adrianople Unsettled.

Turks finally capitulated to a majority of the demands of the Balkan allies at loday's session of the peace confernce in St. James' paisace. Through Rechad Pasha they agreed to cede practically the whole of the Ottoman ampire's European dominions, except addrianople and the territory between and Constantinople, to their victorius but traditionally despised neighbors.

This caused an outburst of indignation which M. Venizelos was hardly able to put down. Several of the degates shouted that it was not dignified to turn such vital matters into a joke, while others observed that they had not come all the way to London and remained here for three weeks to hear a proposition advanced which might have been made at the time the armistice was signed.

After a short recess, during which he had absented himself from the chamber, Rechad reentered the conference room and M. Venizelos again took the chair. Rechad said that Turkey, desiring to give tangible proof of her love for peace and in deference to advice received from the powers, was ready to make the maximum of possible concessions to the allies by granting a rectification of the frontiers, ceding the territories westward of the line occupied by the allies in the vilayet of Adrianople to them. SIMPLICITY.

IT IMPOSSIBLE FEAR

Believes Crowds Would Impede His Progress, So Will Ride Like His Predecessors-Approves Sulzer's Act.

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 1.—Gov.Wood-row Wilson intimated tonight that if it were a possible thing he would like to go afoot between the White House and the capitol when he takes the oath of office as president of the United States on March 4. He realizes, however, that the crowds would make it impossible and that he probmake it impossible and that he prob-ably will have to ride in a parade, as have all recent presidents.

His Idea of Jeffersonian Simplicity. Jeffersonian simplicity, the kind that the president-elect would like to emulate, however, he remarked, consisted not of a horseback ride, as some historians have chronicled it, but was merely an unostentatious walk down Pennsylvania avenue in the company of a few citizens.

Approved Sulzer's Course. "The story that Jefferson rode of horseback to the capitol and hitches his horse to a post while he went in to take the oath of office isn't irue," said the governor. He was told that Governor Sulzer had walked to the capitol at Albany and had abolished the parade. Mr. Wilson spoke approvingly of this. He was asked if he had made any plant for his own incurrent.

"I have simply satisfied myself with impressing the gentlemen at Washington on the inaugural committee with my desire to have the inauguration as simple as possible. I dare say the great crowds in the streets on that day would make walking to the White House and capitol difficult."

The Extra Session. The Extra Session.

The president-elect was questioned as to whether he thought it would be an added convenience to members of congress to know just how soon after the closing of the present session of congress they would have to reassemble for an extra session. He indicated that one of the very first acts of his administration would be to announce the date of the new session.

Steamer That Leaves.

New York, Jan. 1 .- General Cipriano Castro ate three hearty meals and en-joyed a long walk in the bracing air on Ellis Island today. The former president of Venezuela, who decided to go back voluntarily to Europe when he learned on his arrival aboard a French liner yesterday that his right French liner yesterday that his right to land was questioned, seemed satisfied in every way with the entertainment provided for him by the federal authorities pending arrangements for his return on a German liner. There was today no intimation but that his expressed preference to make the return yoyage which would land him in Germany would be met by the Washington authorities.

The former executive of Venezuela had little to say to anyone and paced about the greater part of the time with bowed head. He reiterated that he would be only too glad to get back

tion t Do the Impossible. Washington, Jan. 1. — Suggestions from German sources that soon after the approaching change in the American administration negotiations will be initiated for a new commercial treaty between America and Germany have somewhat puzzled the officials here. It is pointed out that beyond "maximum and minimum" provision of the existing tariff set there is no the existing tariff act there is no warrant of law for such an arrange. The tariff experts are said to failed to find any indication that ncoming democratic administrative will look with favor upon special interesting rather to generate and the control of the cont
